

Have you been diagnosed with a neurologic condition?

People with neurologic diseases often develop severe speech, swallowing, and coughing disorders. These deficits can result in significant decrements to health and quality of life.

We are interested in finding out how your communication, swallowing and cough have changed as a function of neurological disease.

You can help us by participating in a research study where you will complete an evaluation of cough, swallowing, and speech (IRB Protocol #15-430). The evaluation will take 1-2 hours with a trained Speech-Language Pathologist.
